Course Description:
Libraries are complex institutions operating in a defined community with the sole purpose of improving quality of life, be it work life or personal life, for a defined user population. Libraries are, at heart, businesses complete with human resources, accounts payable and receivable, investors, customers and accountability. They compete for funding and resources along side business and industry and therefore must promote themselves using the same techniques as their competitors.

In this course, students will conduct an external and internal analysis of a library and its community for long range planning. Students will develop a detailed public relations portfolio with implementation timeline for their library or library system.

Goals and Objectives
IS 590 - Rural Library Management focuses on the direct application of theoretical management techniques in an actual library setting of the participant’s choosing. At the end of the semester, students will have completed the following:

1. An internal and external profile analysis of a library or library system including a community scan, a community partners profile, library scan, SWOT analysis, service response summary, and ROI profile.
2. A funding profile for a library or library system including local, state, and federal government resources as well as community partnership opportunities.
3. A comprehensive public relations plan for a library or library system including press kit, marketing trademarks (branding, logo, & tag line), and a community marketing strategy.
4. A 12 month action plan for a library or library system based on analysis data for staff development, programs and services, funding opportunities and community relationship building.
Teaching and Learning Considerations
This course is designed as an application course and requires original research from each student. The opportunities for sharing information will be limited due to the focus of each student on a specific library or library system. However, methodologies and processes for achieving research and for analysis of findings may be shared and discussed with other students. I encourage students to partner with classmates who have chosen a similar type library for their study. A resource list for each assignment block will be provided on the Blackboard site.

The nature of the course assignments will require a large amount of time outside of class gathering and analyzing data. Information will be gathered from a variety of resources including, but not limited to print, Internet, and other professionals. Students should keep an annotated record of all their information sources including contact information for other professional consulted for information on their project. All information sources (including interview participants) will need to be cited for each assignment segment using APA (American Psychological Association) citation and format style.

Computing Requirements
The syllabus and other course-related information is available on the Blackboard system Online@UT at http://online.utk.edu/ . This system provides support for asynchronous communications for the course. You will need your NetID and password to access the materials at Online@UT. System and browser recommendations can be found at http://online.utk.edu/support/system_req.shtml. This page also provides links to other information about the system.

Class Participation
There is no specific textbook for this course. Research methodology and analysis will be covered during lecture with additional resources provided for each assignment segment. This course structure makes class attendance necessary for successful completion of course assignments. If an absence is unavoidable, please e-mail me before the absence, if at all possible.

Please feel free to contact me via e-mail if you have any questions or need additional information in completing assignments. I will check my e-mail several times a day during the semester. Please start your subject line with SIS590 and then follow with your e-mail subject.

Assignment Descriptions and Expectations

Community Narrative
Complete the Community Scan Worksheet and use the data to write a narrative summary of your library community. What are the implications for collections, programs, and services development in your library as well as partnership opportunities.

Community Partners Profile Narrative
Complete the Community Stakeholders Checklist for your library community. Choose five stakeholders to research for potential partnership with your library. Complete an analysis of each that includes the following information:

- Name of organization
- Mission of organization
- Ongoing projects supported by organization
- Physical address of organization
- Web address of organization
- Names of current board of directors or officers
- Opportunities for partnership with library

Answer the following about each of the five organizations:

Would this organization be a possible funding source for any of your library programs or services? Why or Why not? If yes, what would you need to do to petition support?
Library Scan Narrative
Complete the Library Scan Worksheet for your library and use the data to write a narrative summary of your library programs, services, collections and staffing. Based on your community narrative findings, identify the deficiencies in existing programs, services, collections and staffing with respect to identified community needs. Be sure to connect these library service areas to community economic development and workforce development in your library community.

SWOT Analysis Narrative
Conduct a small sample SWOT Analysis of your library using face-to-face interviews with 8 people in your library community. Four of the interviews should be with people who work in or closely with the library/library system. These interview results will be used to conduct a sample internal SWOT analysis. The remaining four interviews should be with people who use the library/library system. Their interview results will be used to conduct a sample external SWOT analysis. Write a narrative summary of the findings broken down by the four analysis questions. Discuss implications of findings on library service areas. (A sample SWOT Analysis has been provided for reference. This SWOT Analysis was conducted with the staff of a public library system.)

Service Response Survey Narrative
Use the Service Response Summary to develop a profile of your library services. Describe how your library does or does not provide services for each area listed on the summary. Please add any special services your library provides that are not included on the sheet. School, academic, and special libraries should modify service areas as needed to provide a complete service narrative.

ROI Profile
Develop a Return On Investment worksheet for your library/library system. You will need to identify the key library services for your library/library system and set an average value for each service. You will also need to know your library/library system’s local income per capita. (An ROI calculator (spreadsheet) is provided on Blackboard)

Colors Online Test
Please go to the following web link, http://www.truecolorscareer.com/quiz.asp, and complete Carolyn Kalil’s Free Personality Quiz. Be sure to email me a copy of your test results.

Survey design and focus is at the discretion of course participant. A minimum of ten participants plus course instructor is required. Write a narrative summary of survey findings and implications for library service area. Please include your survey questions as an addendum to your narrative.

The College of Communication and Information recognizes that a college diverse in its people, curricula, scholarship, research, and creative activities expands opportunities for intellectual inquiry and engagement, helps students develop critical thinking skills, and prepares students for social and civic responsibilities. All members of the College benefit from diversity and the quality of learning, research, scholarship and creative activities is enhanced by a climate of inclusion, understanding and appreciation of differences and the full range of human experience. As a result, the College is committed to diversity and equal opportunity and it recognized that it must represent the diversity inherent in American society. The College is acutely aware that diversity and fairness are foundations that unite the College’s faculty, staff, students, and the larger communication and information community (see http://)

Academic Integrity
Academic honesty requires that all work presented be the student’s own work, not only on tests, but in themes, papers, homework, and class presentation. There is a clear distinction between learning new ideas and presenting them as facts or as answers, and presenting them as one’s own ideas. The University has a clear policy on academic integrity complete with a ‘Student Honor Statement” (Hilltopics: Student Handbook, 2010-11, p. 41 Available at http://dos.utk.edu/files/hilltopics_10_11.pdf).
